Om företag

Isofol Medical AB (publ.) is a late stage biotech company working with the development of the cancer drug, arfolitixorin. Arfolitixorin is a new drug candidate that Isofol is primarily developing to treat colorectal cancer (CRC) – the third most common type of cancer and one for which there is a substantial need for more effective drugs. Isofol's development work with arfolitixorin is also targeting so-called "rescue therapy" after high-dose chemotherapy with methotrexate in conjunction with osteosarcoma (bone cancer). Other potential uses for arfolitixorin also includes the treatment of pancreatic cancer, breast cancer, stomach cancer, and head and neck cancers. The Phase III AGENT Study - Isofol has now initiated the pivotal phase 3 AGENT study in order to demonstrate the efficacy of arfolitixorin in the treatment of patients with colorectal cancer.
