

PROJECT MANAGER – EXTERNAL PARTNERS

Posted on 9 maj, 2023

Company Name Oticon Medical

Location Göteborg

Job Description

Are you ready to make a difference for people with a severe hearing disability?

Our mission is clear: We want hearing impaired to be able to experience the sounds of life. This is the foundation for everything we do. This is what drives us and keeps us focussed on innovation and efficiency. We want to develop the world's best hearing healthcare solutions. Nothing less.

Join us as Project Manager and make a difference for people with a severe hearing loss. You will be part of the Project Management Office function responsible for driving cross disciplinary projects and report to the Senior Director of PMO. Preferred location; Göteborg.

Our products

Oticon Medical is committed to improve the quality of life of children and adults, with hearing disabilities, around the globe. For that, we develop Bone Anchored Hearing Systems including implants, surgical tools, sound processors, fitting software, and connectivity accessories. Hence a wide range of technology and expertise areas. We are an agile and fast-growing company with an entrepreneurial spirit with an established network of partners in development, manufacturing, and distribution. Here, we offer an opportunity to join us on our exciting journey to develop innovative implantable hearing solutions.

Leave your fingerprint

In your new role, your focus will be on our outsourced projects, and you'll have full responsibility to lead and drive those projects end-to-end. This means planning and executing from concepts to successful release and roll out to the market. Our projects are multi-disciplinary. Therefore, you will lead a diverse group of people including developers, operations, clinical and marketing experts. Our overall goal is to become market leader in our field.

Your key responsibilities include:

- Leading projects fully or partially outsourced to external partners
- Ensuring great products reaches the market on time

- Ensure efficient project execution with a holistic and problem-solving mindset
- Ensure on time delivery and focus in the full project team
- Leading a project team of skilled multi-disciplinary resources
- Ensuring deliveries complying to medical, regulatory, and internal quality requirements
- Project reporting and milestone reviewing according to our quality management system
- Ensuring the right compromises and decisions both on overall product scope and down to technical specifications
- Pro-active stakeholder management - both internally and to external partners or subcontractors

Your background

You have a minimum of 5 years of work experience driving projects in collaboration with partners preferably within the medical device sector. Either as contractor or as project manager at a consultant company focusing on taking on multi-disciplinary assignments. You are pragmatic, good at stakeholder management and understand how to best leverage internal and partner skills. B.Sc. or M.Sc. in Engineering or another relevant background.

You are a hands-on person with a product interest. Furthermore, have a good technical understanding and experience from working with cross-functional teams across multiple sites. You can easily manage all different levels in a project, covering both long-term strategic planning and high-speed problem solving and detail-oriented questions. You are result-driven and capable of setting clear goals for yourself and your team. You can easily create a strong team spirit among your multiple stakeholders.

Finally, you need to be fluent in written and spoken English, as this is our corporate language.

We believe in the good life

Oticon Medical offers many exciting challenges in an international organization full of spirit and expertise. We believe that personal and professional development is the foundation for the growth of our business.

We create solutions that allow people to live their lives to the fullest. We also recognize that to bring energy and inspiration to work, you need to re-energize and spend time with family, friends, and hobbies in a healthy work life balance.
