About Balt

Balt is a rapidly growing company in an exceptional field. For 45 years, Balt has been leading the way - collaborating with physicians and institutions to develop innovative medical devices.

We introduced one of the first neurovascular intervention devices in 1977 and now offer the world's broadest portfolio of medical devices for neurointervention. As the premier global neurovascular platform is always seeking to expand beyond boundaries, we are now bringing our innovation to the peripheral vascular space.

We are proud of our mission, our people, and the incredible work we accomplish together as we empower physicians to save lives.
